Congress Hears Plan For Tax On All Communities

Mrs. Morgenthau Assumes Post

(Picture Below)

NEW YORK (Spl.)—Mrs Henry Morgenthau Jr., wife of the Secretary of the Treasury, has accepted the post of radio director for the women's division of the Democratic campaign, it was announced at headquarters here. The position means that Mrs. Morgenthau will assume an active role in the drive of reelect President Roosevelt.

Last week Mrs. Morgenthau was host to the President and Mrs. Roosevelt at a clam bake on the lawn of the Morgenthau mansion near Hyde Park.

Nazis Disappointed In Benefit From Games

BERLIN (Spl.)—With an opportunity now to check up exactly on what benefits they realized from the much-discussed Olympics, the Nazis are beginning to feel that for the money they put out, they received very little in return.

Their hopes for a giant display of Nazi accomplishments and courtesy dashed by Hitler's snubbing of Jesse Owens, Negro champ, who won four gold medals, the Nazis are worrying about the nation's reaction to the obvious superiority of a Negro over the world's best Aryans, whatever that means.

Jewish stores, heretofore prevented from showing the Nazi emblem were gayly bedecked with Olympic flags.

Fear for a recurrence of Jewish persecution now that the Olympics are over has the Jewish population in a tense state. An intensification of every phase of the cold pogrom is definitely expected. Plans for emigration to South America and other available countries are being pushed, despite a rumor that all emigration has been ordered stopped.

Exceeds Agenda As Permanent Group Effective

GENEVA (Spl.)—A militant World Jewish Congress, meeting here in the League of Nations Hall, definitely declared for a permanent organization and went beyond the bounds of its agenda when it called for a tax on every Jewish individual and Jewish community.

Dr. Leon Kubowitski, of Belgium, who made the proposal before the 291 assembled delegates representing thirty-two nations, for a permanent Congress in one of his points said, "The Jewish Communities and associations of the world must place a percentage of their budget at the disposal of the World Congress."

According to Dr. Kubowitski's plan a Congress would be elected for four years and meet regularly bi-annually. Between sessions a central council should meet semi-annually and one section of the executive should have specific administrative duties.

Despite the fact that at the opening session, Rabbi Wise described the Congress as a "purely voluntary and cooperative association of those Jewries choosing to participate," Dr. Kubowitski ignored this limitation in outlining his plan for a permanent organization.

Rabbi Wise and Louis Lipsky were elected among the fourteen presidents of the Congress.

Jewess Is Named Wisconsin Queen

CHICAGO (Spl.)—With offers from three motion picture companies in her purse, Jane Goldberg, 17-year-old high school graduate from Kenosha, Wis., was being feted here this week preliminary to reigning as queen over Wisconsin Day at the Texas Centennial in Dallas on August 23. Thrilled and excited, the Jewish beauty, who was chosen the Badger State's most beautiful girl after many eliminations could hardly speak on her arrival here.

After the Centennial celebration, Miss Goldberg plans to go to Hollywood to accept one of the offers made to her.

WINS TENNIS TITLE

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (Spl.)—Marty Stesin, 1933 city champion, returned to his throne after two year's absence by defeating Fred Olson in the finals of the municipal tournament last week.

The Editor's Chair:

In the German citizen's enthusiastic praise for Jesse Owens, Negro track marvel, may be gained an indication of the adherence of the Nazis to the tenets of the Hitler philosophy of Aryanism. Despite Hitler's ugly refusal to recognize Owens, which however, was to be expected, the spectators cheered the United States athlete unreservedly and acknowledged his super-human ability in no less sincere a demonstration of homage than an American sports crowd would give at a similar performance.

After more than three years of inculcation with the Aryan theory, it would seem that the Nazi adherents would, if they properly believed what had been drilled into them, give Owens a measure of the same discourteous treatment as did their Fuehrer.

Better than any other sign is this infallible symptom of Nazi disloyalty to one of the major precepts of their silly philosophy.

Our friend Jacob de Haas writes to suggest his agreement with Mr. Slutsky's remarks on our overlong editorials. "Often," Mr. de Haas wrote, "I set the length of an article before I sit down to write it." And if anyone should be in a position to advise wisely, it is Mr. de Haas. So that if we can restrain our too ready pen, the future will see shorter editorials.

According to a study published last year, roughly about 50 per cent of the violin virtuosi and maestros and first violinists of American symphony orchestras are Jewish, as are from 25 to 50 per cent of the piano virtuosi of the symphony and amusement orchestras. Ten per cent of American composers are Jewish. Of the twelve leading symphony orchestras in the country with a total of 1,043 players, 269 or 25.7 per cent were Jews.

Hadassah Answers The Call; We Salute You

"Mishmar HaEmek alone weeps over the loss of 3,000 trees from the forest that was its pride." Thus wrote Mrs. Henrietta Szold, remarkable Jewish woman, who like Ruth and Esther will go down in legendary history as one of the great figures of her day, in issuing an appeal to Hadassah for help.

But no longer need Mishmar HaEmek weep. Electrified by the earnest words of her founder, Hadassah is stirred and plans to move into action. An appeal has gone out to the Jewish women of America, 350 chapters strong in 45 states. An appeal is made to "help rebuild the raped forests of Palestine." Mrs. Szold, wrote in almost poetic eloquence, "A tree in treeless Palestine—a tree into the planting of which went blood and sweat and substance, and which symbolized hope and the future—destroyed ruthlessly."

No other urging is necessary. Mrs. Albert P. Schoolman, chairman of the Jewish National Fund Council of Hadassah, has begun to mobilize the Jewish Women of the nation. To all who know Hadassah's ability, it is no longer a question of whether the trees will be replaced, it is only a matter of time. The trees will be replanted, we may rest assured. Summer committees have been appointed. Although the warm months are usually a time of inactivity, an emergency draft calls back the women from their vacations, stirs activity where before only lethargy was, and institutes a drive for a purpose which will meet with unhesitant cooperation from everyone.

Women of Israel rallying in a crisis. Indeed it is moving and dramatic. And if men are ineffectual and blundering and incompetent, let us hope they are not ungrateful, too. This paper salutes Hadassah, for another coup. Hadassah, we salute you.

Year of Unprecedented Activity Predictable

Even the most observer of the American Jewish scene can predict a year of unprecedented activity for Jewish organizations beginning with this fall.

With the Rosh Hashonah holidays a week or two earlier this year, October 1 should see most of the major Jewish organizations in full swing for the fall and winter season. The Zionists, B'nai B'rith, American Jewish Congress, American Jewish Committee, Hadassah and the Council of Jewish Women are all already laying plans for enlarged programs. Of these groups at least two, the Zionists and B'nai B'rith are entering on new phases of activity, which if plans do not go awry, should widen their influence and enhance their prestige and effectiveness. No doubt the others too have undisclosed plans for new work and accomplishments.

The Zionists in their plan for divisional supervision of the organization and their belated scheme of educational work will probably assume new proportions in many communities in which heretofore instead of enlisting interest as a local organization, they have remained a comparatively foreign New York organization. Especially along educational lines should the Zionists with their $200,000 budgeted for this department, create new interest. Speakers, mailing peices, campaigns and publicity should impress every Jew in the nation with the necessity for the Zionist cause. When added to this, the plan for restricting the nation is finally adopted and but into effect, there should be no reason why Zionist membership should not catapult to well into the hundreds of thousands.

The work laid out for B'nai B'rith which is not only experimental, but gigantic in scope, is adult education. After a year of preliminary investigation and trial and effort, adult education will be offered under competent teachers and curricula in many communities which heretofore have vaguely felt the need but have had no means to fill it. A growing demand for information on Jewish history, ethics and achievements will now be answered under the best possible supervision, by a national organization peculiarly equipped because of its layman character, to perform this service, which in time will rank along with its anti-defamation work.

Vacation days will soon be over. In some communities drives for Jewish relief and charity will be gotten under way. But everywhere the laziness of summer will be replaced by renewed activity, vigor and hope.

Planting Trees In Palestine

To the Editor:

In response to the call issued to Jews everywhere by the Jerusalem headquarters of the Keren Kayemeth le Israel to plant five new trees for every one the Arabs burned in Palestine, the local National Jewish Workers Alliance of which Ed Lerman is president and Robert Rubin treasurer, gathered among its members fifteen dollars to plant ten trees.

With the dictum of the prophet Isaiah (9:9), "Sycamores have been cut down, we shall plant cedars in their place," as our motto, we must answer the challenge thrown by the forces of Arab destruction and burning of trees—man's best friend in a country where the sun reigns for the major part of the year—through reconstruction and reforestation.

It is now the midst of the season and many members are taking vacations. The National Jewish Workers Alliance hopes that the rest will bring to them energy and renewed vigor, so that they may assist in building a stronger organization in this city commencing in the early fall.

MRS. JOSEPH SALTZMAN,

Sec'y-Natl. Jewish Workers Alliance
Louisville, Ky.

Editors note: Planting of a new tree in Palestine costs $1.50. Jewish people wishing to aid in this work, but having no knowledge of how to make their contributions, may forward them to this paper, which will be glad to print the names of donors.

Divided We Stand, United We Fall

To the Editor:

As long as there have been Jews in this world, they have been accused of internationalism. Our gentile neighbors, whether they be Jew baiters or not, secretly believe way down in their hearts that all Jews work collectively. That there is some sort of an international system whereby all Jews are interlocked for a common purpose, their own general welfare and that we have a marvelous network of communication between ourselves and between the nation we make our homes in. Thus if one Jew makes an error all are held up to ridicule and criticism. If one Jew is caught in an act of thevery, all are said to be crooked. This rule does not apply to our gentile friends nor does it work the opposite way so that all Jews could share the praise and honor that a few get.

If our gentile neighbors could only know and understand that among the Jewish people and within the Jewish people there are barriers that are greater than any they could ever hope to create, they possibly would accord us different treatment.

Reformed and orthodox, uptown and downtown, German and Russian, Ghetto and Ritz, Litvaks and Galitzians, this click and that click, all Jews, all believing in the same God all trying to get into the same heaven, yet miles and miles apart in habits, customs, belief and mutual understanding. You, who have been in the presence of their mixed company will understand this.

No international system here, no working together for a common purpose, no uniformity, no common leaders, no home land, no cooperation. Will we ever actually unite and present an organized front to the world that believes we are all so interlocked in a great international system?

Resolution Is Explained

To the Editor:

I am in receipt of many letters of inquiry as well as editorials in the Jewish Press showing a complete misunderstanding of the resolution passed by the Central Conference of American Rabbis on "conscientious objectors" at its recent convention. A pacifist resolution was introduced but was withdrawn and in its place was the simple statement that we reaffirm our previous stand that it is possible to interpret Judaism as opposed to all war; hence if a man conscientiously is opposed to war, we ask the government to grant to him the same exemption that has long been granted to members of the Society of Friends and other religious organizations.

The Conference did not approve or disapprove of pacifism. It simply stated that if a man conscientiously objects on religious grounds to participation in war, his opinion shall be respected if he be a Jew as is done in the case of other re-

Marriage

By RABBI EDWARD L. ISRAEL

Just before sailing for Europe, I visited a New York barber shop for a general "mopping-up." A persuasive barber convinced me that for matters of economy as well of necessity, it would be best for me to "take the whole works" which included about every sort of tonsorial attention and a "free manicure."

I bid my readers who are not interested in my personal beautification to have just a little patience. This story really has a "moral" if you can call it that. It hinges on that "free manicure" and the sweet young manicurist. "What is this?" you ask. "Sex stuff in an article which should be sedately devoted to 'Townsendism,' 'Coughlinism' and other such sexually unappealing subjects?"

Yes, for today we wander into somewhat different fields. Yet, for the fate of the nation and of humanity in general, the thought I offer for today is far more important than any of these other themes.

There were two manicurists in the barber shop. Both were young and pretty. Both were obviously like the rest of the shop, American of Italian ancestry. One of the manicurists was pretty in the Neapolitan or Sicilian manner. She had a certain well-rounded voluptuous self-assurance. She met me easily and engaged them with candid lure. The other girl was more of the Florentine or Lombardian type. There was an almost Anglo-Saxon reserve about her finely chiseled features and slim figure. She addressed me in a somewhat shy and self-conscious manner. She seemed to be far the most sensitive sort.

Fate of a Manicurist

It was this second girl who was to serve me. I noted some delay during which the crude, raucous voiced boss of the shop was addressing this girl most abusively. I soon discovered the reason. She had dropped one of the manicuring clippers on the floor the day before and bent it. It was her own but she did not have three dollars to buy another and the hours in the shop had not permitted her to go about to see whether it could be repaired. It was only the kindness of the other girl who loaned her a pair which permitted her to continue work. And at this moment the other girl was using her clippers.

During all this operation, a third girl who had left employment in this shop to go to another, paid my barber a visit. From their conversation, I learned a bit. "Free manicure" doesn't always mean the exclusive right to tips. You not only have to furnish your own manicuring bit, you not only receive no stipulated wage, but in many instances you have to pay the boss for the right to work for gratuities.

ligious denominations. The resolution reads as follows:

"The Central Conference of American Rabbis reaffirms its conviction that conscientious objection to military service is in accordance with the highest interpretation of Judaism and therefore petitions the government of the United States to grant to Jewish religious conscientious objectors the same exemption from military service as has long been granted to members of the Society of Friends and similar religious organizations."

ISAAC E. MARCUSON, Secretary
Central Conference of American Rabbis.

Since I send these articles in to be printed practically a week before they come back to you in the form of the Jewish Post, it gives me this opportunity to write one more column from Indianapolis, although when you read over these lines I will actually be out of town and on my vacation, (I hope) . . . the above explanation may also make it clear to you why some of the facts I have printed herein may have seemed to you at the time a little late for news . . . however when I secured them they were red hot items and in fact some of them were even so called "scoops," . . . since this is a weekly paper and not a daily it has certain limitations and bounds that we must remain within that makes it impossible to report news items the moment we learn them. . . I do want to thank the many people who have stopped me on the street and expressed interest and enjoyment in reading my column and the entire paper. We hope your interest will remain and even grow keener as time passes and we expect to continue with our very best efforts to supply you with the news that you are most interested in reading. . .

BOUQUET

Now for the flowers again. That subject which has been causing so much favorable discussion in our Jewish community. The person to receive the flowers this week as I explained to you in my last endeavor will terminate this phase of the column temporarily until I return from my vacation and also until some of the rest of you get back from yours . . . the notable in our midst who is to have his name mentioned herein is by no means any the less important because of the fact that his name . . . appearing last, for I can think of many many reasons why, as the saying goes "and the last shall be first" . . . this Jewish person in our midst who is to be awarded with a beautiful bouquet of flowers and honorary mention this week is a man who helped build an organization that is world renowned . . . when I tell you the name of the organization, you will immediately know the man . . . Real Silk Hosiery Mills should automatically suggest the name of J. A. Goodman . . . this man and the organization which he helped grow from a mole hill to a mountain is known all over the business world where people wear silk hosiery . . . this award however is not being made to Mr. Goodman because of his connection with the Real Silk Mills although I would easily be justified in doing so because of the fact that he has helped bring employment to over 3500 people, many of whom are Jewish and all of whom are indirectly dependent for their livelihood from the company which he has played such an important part in directing as chairman of its board of directors . . . the award of flowers herein to Mr. Jacob A. Goodman is for his help in the creation of another organization that has also grown from a mole hill to a mountain and you of course know that I refer to the Beth El Temple on 34th and Ruckle St. which under his guidance, care, effort, advice and money has come to be one of the leading and progressive religious Jewish organizations in Indianapolis. . . Mr. Goodman is a dynamic power house of vitality, and to those of you who know him personally and know how he operates, you will understand when I say that whenever he attaches himself to a project it is always successful . . . we all know that the name of J. A. Goodman here stands for success, intelligence and generosity . . . he has given his impetuous to such things Jewish as the Welfare Fund, Jewish Education Society, American Jewish Joint Distribution Committee and many others . . . he is of course a B'nai B'rith and also on the executive committee of Beth El Temple . . . he has also been connected with other organizations of Jewish and non-Jewish character . . . Mr. J. A. Goodman is one of the outstanding Jews in Indianapolis and because of this fact we are awarding him the flowers and congratulating him for the many honors he has had in the past . . . may he continue to lend his help to our Jewish people in the future as he has so ably in the past and may the name of J. A. Goodman continue to be one symbolic of generous conscientious giving. . .

Social

And now before I slip away I will devote a little time to some of our social functions and interminglings. . . the here and thereabouts of some of us . . . like for example the famous Emil Seidel, a local boy who made good in the big city N. Dear Doug:

You really shouldn't have done it. It has been intimated to me "you spread it on" the fulsome words of praise "entirely too thick." Others will suspect an undue influence that was never exerted.

Be that as it may, the flowers were beautiful in their fragrance and the kind words did not fall on deaf ears. Moreover, the flowers came just as I was leaving for a visit to my wife at the Milwaukee Sanitarium where she is resting and recuperating. I took them along and they brightened her room and cheered her by their rich color and rare perfume. So her thanks are added to mine to you and the Post.

Gratefully yours,

Children Win Concessions From Parents By Striking

STAMFORD, Conn., (Spl.)—Jewish children from Germany to Paul Shulman, 14-year-old, and his brother, Mark, 10, were firm believers in the strike weapon after they had picketed their parents' home, eight miles from Stamford, in a successful effort to get something more than soap in their eyes for washing their faces.

Herman Shulman, a lawyer, and Mrs. Shulman, who is national secretary of Hadassah, have been vitally interested for many years in the cause of labor generally. They had seriously discussed with their sons such problems as cutting the lawn and dumping the garbage, but had no idea until a week ago Sunday that they were considered greedy bosses on suppressing the working class.

Mr. and Mrs. Shulman had just finished eating Sunday dinner that day with their children and two week-end guests, Sigmund Menkes, an artist, and Mrs. Menkes, when Paul and Mark dug out of a closet some cardboard boxes and then went in the front yard and sat under a tree. A few minutes later a car came along East Hunting Ridge Road, which passed in front of the Shulman home, and the boys got up and marched to attract attention.

Parents Unfair

Paul and Mark had slung cardboard signs over their shoulders and on the signs were written: "Our Parents Are Unfair."

Mrs. Shulman said today that she was picketed for four hours before the boys agreed to the appointment of Mr. and Mrs. Menkes as impartial arbitrators. She said that she had consented to meet all reasonable demands before the strike was called, but Mark insisted it had been otherwise.

"We just beat around the bush," he said while sitting on the porch in blue overalls and a yellow polo shirt. "We didn't get down to business."

Mark admitted, however, that he was willing to enter an oral agreement with his mother on controversial matters entering a boy's life, but Paul insisted on a written contract. "I've had my experience," said Paul.

The Contract

The contract which Paul wrote and his mother signed follows:

"We, Rebecca Shulman and Paul Shulman, the above signers, agree to the below:

"Paul Shulman must dump the garbage once a day. Paul Shulman must burn the garbage once a day. Paul Shulman must take care of the garden, front lawn and game court. Paul Shulman must make his bed. Paul Shulman must be neat and clean at all times. Paul Shulman must read one hour a day.

"He shall receive the following: "Paul Shulman shall get $1 each week and five cents extra for each day that pay is overdue. Paul Shulman shall go horseback riding three times a week for one hour at a time. Paul Shulman shall have the right to plan for himself. Paul Shulman shall get a 25-cent bonus for each book he reads."

Contribute to Youth Aliyah

In a spirit of compromise Paul and Mark abandoned a demand for "longer waking hours." The task of keeping spick and span is not to their liking, but they agree it is acceptable since they now can plan their own daily routine. Mark is particularly pleased by the bonus for book reading because his allowance is only fifteen cents per week. Both give twenty-five cents a week to the Youth Aliyah Fund of Hadassah for the transfer of Jewish children from Germany to Palestine.

"The trouble is that parents think children are still the babies they carried in their arms many a year ago," said Paul, who starts high school courses this fall at the Columbia Grammar School in New York.

"Children mature enough to strike can't say they have been coddled" Mrs. Shulman contributed by way of retort.

Mark said the idea of striking came in the spring when the elevator operators walked out of the Shulman's New York apartment at 315 Central Park West. He thought he might organize a Boys' Anti-Ear-Washing Union.

"There was only one trouble with our strike," he said. "The picket signs were no good. We didn't have the number of our local on them."

Hadassah In Tree Appeal

NEW YORK (Spl.)—An appeal to the Jewish women of America to help rebuild the destroyed forests of Palestine burned during the present disturbances, was issued yesterday to the 50,000 members of Hadassah, the Women's Zionist Organization of America, by Mrs. Albert P. Schoolman, chairman of the Jewish National Fund Council of the organization.

In her appeal Mrs. Schoolman quoted from a letter sent by Miss Henrietta Szold, veteran Zionist leader, founder of Hadassah, from Jerusalem:

"I wonder whether Americans realize our sorrow and grief over the trees uprooted and burned by the thousands. Mishmar HaEmek alone weeps over the loss of nine thousand trees from the forest that was its pride. A tree in treeless Palestine—a tree into the planting of which went blood and sweat and substance, and which symbolized hope and the future—destroyed ruthlessly."

The efforts of the Jewish National Fund in reforesting the neglected hills and valleys of Palestine resulted in the planting of 1,700,000 trees during the past decade, Mrs. Schoolman said. She pointed out that tracts of eucalyptus trees have served to absorb stagnant pools that were breeders of malaria. During the past three months about 38,000 trees have been burned or uprooted in many parts of the country, including forests named for Theodor Herzl, the founder of Zionism; Lord Balfour and George Washington, Mrs. Schoolman said.

Special summer committees have been appointed in the 350 Hadassah chapters in 45 states to carry on the campaign for the sale of trees to replace those that have been destroyed. Cypress, pine, palm and olive trees, in addition to the eucalyptus, are the most popular varieties in Palestine.

Mrs. Schoolman said that the Hadassah women recently completed the Hadassah Forest of 10,000 trees in Kiryat Anavim, Palestine, and are expected to take a prominent part in the present drive.

Rebecca Gratz Picture On Passes

CLEVELAND, O. (Spl.)—Following its custom of honoring great Americans, the Cleveland Railway Co. last week printed a photographic reproduction of a bas relief of Rebecca Gratz, great Jewish pioneer on its weekly passes.

Rebecca Gratz, from which the photograph was made was a philanthropist, and a religious and cultural leader and noted as the model for the "Rebecca" of Sir Walter Scott's "Ivanhoe." She was the founder of the first Hebrew Sabbath School. She was a life-long friend of Washington Irving who described her to his friend Scott and thus enabled the novelist to create the greatest character in "Ivanhoe."

Million Jews Must Leave

WARSAW (Spl.)—One million Jews may soon begin a long and painful emigration from Poland if the wishes of the Foreign Ministry can be fulfilled, it was indicated by the second article in the past two weeks in the official agency Political information on the Jewish problem.

Seriously concerned with the situation, which it claims will gradually grow worse instead of improve, Poland is seeking, even with the aid of the League of Nations if necessary, a solution to her Jewish problem. Arguing that new undeveloped regions must be sought for Polish Jews, the statement declared that Poland has not the capital to develop her industry and commerce adequately and emigration is the only outlet for her surplus population, especially Jewish.

The statement showed an unmistakable desire to solve the problem equitably.

It is believed that Poland will raise the question at the League of Nations Assembly in September. Jewish emigration will be considered as part of a worldwide resettlement plan in connection with the redistribution of colonies.

Letter Tells What To Expect If Hitler Rules World

Contributions of Jews To World, Not To Germany, Consequently They Cannot Be Allowed To Stay

Editor, Citizen: I am very glad to inform the Canadian public that we have now here a real Aryan paper, which will give the Canadians a true picture of real Germany.

We have been improperly criticized because we want Germany

For example, we have been criticized because we have cast out from our German professions and our public and business life all Jews. But we had a right to do so. We Germans will not be fooled as we were before. In the next great war we do not want any Jews around. We learned our lesson that the Jews, no matter where they live are too much bound up with England, and we are entitled to self-protection.

In the third year of the Great War, when we had the Allied armies where we wanted them, and we would have destroyed them in less than two months as planned, a Russian Jew gave the British government certain chemical discoveries, which caused our powerful armies to change all our plans.

Then when in spite of all this, we still remained supreme, and could have won out in 1917, another Jew, Rufus Isaacs, through schemes and falsehoods, got the Americans into the war against us; and by sheer numbers and unlimited moneys they beat us and wrested from us the victory that was ours. But this was only for a short while. We will not rest until we are supreme, and own all we need and want. In another year or two, our great Fuehrer will change the map of the world.

Now you can understand why we cannot allow Jews in Germany. They claim they gave us Ehrlich, Wasserman, Koch, Virchow, and other great men, but their contributions were not for Germany, but for the world at large—and so we cannot call them Germans.

We know too that King Edward VIII, does not make an important move without his personal adviser, Sir Philip Sassoon, another Jew, just the same as his father, King George V., would do nothing without Lord Reading.

The same with the other head republic. We know President Roosevelt does not make a move

These countries are our perpetual enemies, and so we cannot trust any Jews in our land, as they are bound up too much with the British and the Americans. Therefore, you cannot blame us for casting them out of our beloved Fatherland. They are not of our soil or blood.

Then as to the Roman Catholics. They follow the advice of a foreign ruler—who claims to be the representative on earth of Christ—another Jew. We want nothing that comes from Jews whether it is called Christianity, or by any other name. We need not copy anything from races inferior to us. We have our own gods—sprung from our own soil and blood, and these are all we need.

Our Fuehrer will change everything. In a few years more there will be no Roman Catholics in Germany. All will follow the great Fuehrer in politics and in one belief—and certainly not the pale-faced Jew religion of the Bible—old or so-called new.

You Canadians need not fear, even if in the end you are part of great Germany. After you see from our paper our great aims and hopes, you will be glad to become part of our great empire and join with us under our divine Fuehrer, the true protector of all that is truly Aryan in world politics and religion. This will be a great destiny for all Canada, and certainly a great future, greater than it can ever expect in its present place. With its raw materials and enormous fertile spaces and natural resources, at the command of the German empire, Canada will be the greatest gem in our empire.

NAZI HEAR HARVARD PROF ASSAIL REPRESSION

Delegation Hears Frank Discussion

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (Spl.)—In a courageous and unexpected address, Dr. Kirley F. Mather, director of the Harvard Summer School, told a group of Nazi students from secondary schools in Germany, that race equality and academic freedom were stressed as important principles in education at Harvard in welcoming them here on their tour of U. S. schools.

Asserting that no one race is the sole repository of wisdom, virtue and ability, Dr. Mather said "we believe that all kinds of people have contributed to make the modern civilization. We believe in freedom. We therefore are interested in all sorts of people and in all kinds of culture. On the faculty of Harvard University there are representatives of a dozen different races of mankind. Our professors are drawn from all classes; many of them were educated in Europe, some in Germany; most of them of course had their training in America.

"They are interested in all sorts of things. We have courses in almost every conceivable subject, because young people are interested in almost everything under the sun and have the right to become acquainted with all kinds of literature, all kinds of politics, all systems of government.

"We keep for ourselves here at Harvard all the freedom we can retain or secure, so that we may learn how to think, and, knowing how to reach conclusions, we may become better citizens of the great civilization of mankind."

A reply to Dr. Mather was made by Dr. Otto Kunz of the Amerika-Institute in Berlin, leader of the student group, but he made no reference to the address of the Harvard professor.

Following the reception, the visitors were taken on a three-hour tour of the grounds, building and special tercentenary exhibits.

ing to, on such precarious economic footing. You could carry the investigation into fields far more populated than manicuring. I was interested here because in the manner, the demeanor and speech of this girl, I found traces of those qualities to which any cultured and fair society should give an opportunity to develop.

I had just returned from a conference where a group of smug social workers were talking about "intellectual and cultural preparation for marriage." Yet what is all that sort of stuff going to amount to with girls who struggle to live decently on a few dollars a week and whose ears ring long after the interminable working hours with the sharp beratings of some crude "boss"?

Marriage an Economic Escape

Marriage is not a climax of preparation for millions of young women. It is frankly an escape from economic pressure. The escape is not often successful, but at the moment it looks inviting. Ultimately, however, it usually means a drab existence in a cheap flat, frantically placing hope in contraception and seeking an outlet for a starved emotional life in the Apollos of the movies or in cheap adultery.

ATTEND WZO MEETING

NEW YORK—Mrs. Edward Jacobs, national president of Hadasah the Women's Zionist Organization of America, and Mrs. Moses P. Epstein, national vice president, will attend the annual meeting of the Actions Committee of the World Zionist Organization in Zurich, Switzerland, from Aug. 25 to Sept. 2. Mrs. Epstein, who is an official delegate from the United States elected by the World Zionist Organization at its last Congress, will leave on the Normandie August 19.

Such is the texture out of which great masses of American family life are built. It's bad, but you'll not improve it through the idealistic programs of sex sociologists. Until young women are on an economic status where the choice of a mate is devoid of the longing to escape from impossible economic conditions, we shall find the finer traits ground down and lost in the biological process.

I can see my manicurist going through this experience. Out of the wreckage she saves a daughter whom she hopes will fare better. But she herself is probably the daughter of a woman who hoped the same, and whose drab life was to be compensated by the finer fate of her own child. An eternally desultory song, repeating itself meaninglessly generation by generation, until society has the courage to build itself into an equitable state where personality can really develop its finest potentialities. For there's the greatest crime of social injustice—it not only creates physical misery, it destroys spirituality and personality.

3 Jewish Professors Develop New Treatment For Cancer; Approved

ROUEN, France (Spl.)—After a thorough investigation Dr. Cailliau, professor of pathological anatomy at Rouen, has given an enthusiastic endorsement to the "multivalent hormone therapy" treatment of cancers discovered by Professor F. Blumenthal, his former assistant Dr. E. Jacobs, and Dr. Hugo Rosenberg, three Jewish physicians. Declaring he attached the greatest importance to the new treatment, Dr. Cailliau, said he was preparing a paper on his study for the "Swiss Medical Journal."

Professor Blumenthal and Dr. Jacobs are Jewish refugees from Germany.

The treatment is a form of what is called "multivalent therapy," and it has been tried during the last few months on 114 patients. The results are claimed to be most satisfactory. It is announced that a number of the cases which had been given up for lost (the cancerous growths having gone beyond the stage when they could be operated upon) were restored to health.

The treatment consists of intramuscular injections prepared from the liver stomach, pancreas, intestine, and spleen of freshly slaughtered oxen. Tablets containing a similar preparation are taken at the same time. In some cases the preparation was also applied in the form of a salve. The idea of this treatment is chiefly Dr. Jacobs.

It is said that the treatment is painless, and that pain produced by the disease itself has been relieved within a few hours.

Saves Lives Of Three In Boat

FOREST LAKE, Minn. (Spl.)—Three of five persons in a boat which capsized on Clear Lake near here last week were rescued by a trio of Jewish campers, but the father of two of the girls saved and his nephew drowned before they could be reached.

The Jewish boys, Nate Raskin, 18; Joseph Mindelshon, 17, and Edwin Tomash, 18, all of Minneapolis, were able to pull Oran Votaw and two little sisters, Patricia and Joan Clagherty, into the boat they commandeered, but the father of a nephew sunk before they could be reached. The boys dived futilely before giving up hope.

The rescuers are students at Central High, members of Boy Scout Troup 53, and former pupils at the Jewish Center Hebrew School.
